Until recently, no one knew about the Alaskan Tlingit code talkers. (Even their families didn't know of their secret service!)

The Tlingit language was one of the Native languages used during World War II to transmit messages.

In 2013, Congress awarded silver medals posthumously to Tlingit code talkers Robert “Jeff” David Sr., Richard Bean Sr., George Lewis Jr., and the Jacobs brothers.

Our debt to the heroic men and valiant women in the service of our society can never be repaid. They have earned our undying gratitude. America will never forget their sacrifices.

-Harry S. Truman
Design your own coin to honor the service of American Indians and Alaskan Natives in World War II.