During Women's History Month the Department of Defense joins the nation in celebrating the vital role of women—not only in American history—but in our future.

“\textit{You don’t make progress by standing on the sidelines, whimpering and complaining. You make progress by implementing ideas.}”

Shirley Chisholm became the first African-American congresswoman in 1968.

Four years later, she became the first major-party Black candidate to make a bid for the U.S. presidency.

\textbf{Fun fact:} Before she entered politics her career was in education.
A Woman I Admire

Whom do you admire?
In the frame, draw a picture of the person

This is a picture of __________________________

This person is important because ________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

Something I admire about the person is _________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________